

U. S. Is Negotiating With Chinese on Release of 83

Contact Is First With Reds at Geneva

Geneva, June 5 (AP)—The United States opened direct negotiations with Red China today in an effort to obtain the release of an estimated 83 American civilians and military personnel detained in China.

The exact number of those involved was not known by the U. S. delegation at Geneva, but an unofficial breakdown indicated 54 civilians and 29 military personnel were either under arrest or were refused visas to leave.

The beginning of the negotiations was announced by the U. S. delegation shortly after the first meeting was held.

This was announced by the U. S. delegation to the Geneva conference, shortly after the first talks were held. It was the first direct contact the United States has had with Red China at Geneva. The United States previously had refused to deal with the Peiping regime, which it does not recognize.

The U. S. representative at the talks was Alexis Johnson, American ambassador to Czechoslovakia.

Announcement

An American announcement said:

"In an effort to secure the release of United States citizens at present imprisoned or otherwise detained in Communist China, U. S. Ambassador to Czechoslovakia, Alexis Johnson, United States ambassador to Czechoslovakia, and member of the United States delegation at the Geneva Conference, today accompanied Humphrey Trevelyan, British charge d'affaires at Peiping, to a meeting with a member of the Chinese Communist delegation."

Later, a member of the American delegation said that the meeting with the Red Chinese "does not involve recognition of any sort."

He explained that in the past the United States has always maintained its position as a nation of peace "so why shouldn't we do it here?"

The negotiations were opened on instructions from Washington, it was learned.

Other Meetings

There will be other meetings on the question, informants said.

An American source described the atmosphere at the get-together as "very friendly."

Asked if there had been any real progress, he said there was no commotion pointing out this was an exchange of views and involved delicate negotiations.

The negotiations also involve approximately 120 Chinese students who, it is understood, have been denied exit visas in the United States. Red China says the

2:30 P.M. Program Slated at Senate House; Last Land of Stuyvesant Sold in Gotham

While arrangements were being made for the ceremonies today marking the presentation of the Chambers' Deed to the city of Kingston, negotiations were completed in New York for the passing of the last land parcel of Manhattan Island from the Stuyvesant family.

The local rites, scheduled for 2:30 p. m. at the Senate House Museum, will feature the presentation by Mayor Frederick H. Stang, on behalf of the citizens of the city, to Mrs. E. Crane Chadbourne, president of the board of trustees of the Senate House Association.

On Public View

Presentation of the Chamber's Deed to the city, which will be on permanent loan to the Senate House Museum, marks the 302nd anniversary of the signing of the historic document. The document will be on public exhibition at the Museum.

Meanwhile, in New York today, the New York Investors Mutual Group, Inc., announced the purchase of the remaining 73 plots along Third Avenue as the last land parcels granted by the Dutch Government to Gov. Peter Stuyvesant more than three centuries ago. The property previously was held by the estate of Augustus Van Horne Stuyvesant, last lineal descendant of the governor.

Included in the sale was the Fifth Avenue mansion in which Augustus Stuyvesant died last year. The purchase price was not disclosed, but its assessed valuation was about $1,850,000, The Associated Press reported.

Upstate Party Heads To Support Roosevelt

New York, June 5 (AP)—Democratic state chairmen of eight upstate counties have pledged 104 first-ballot votes toward nominating Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. (D., Lib.-N.Y.) for governor.

The Democratic state convention will be held here Sept. 21-22. The pledges represent more than 20 per cent of the 510 needed to nominate. Roosevelt has said he will run if nominated.

Roger Stevens, chairman of the "Citizens for Roosevelt" Committee, said yesterday he received pledges from the chairman of the following counties: Erie, Allegheny, Cattaraugus, Chautauque, Genesee, Orleans, Niagara and Wyoming.

The counties comprise the Eighth Judicial District centering about Buffalo.

Former Governor Of New Jersey Is Heart Victim

New York, June 5 (AP)—New Jersey's former Gov. Harold Giles Hoffman, often the center of political fireworks and for years a sharp critic of Lindbergh kidnapping investigators, died yesterday at the age of 58.

(Hoffman was the speaker at the first annual meeting and banquet of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in 1946.)

A lifelong Republican, Hoffman succumbed with his latest political furor still a live issue. Last March 18 he was suspended as New Jersey's director of employment security pending investigation of alleged irregularities in purchase of supplies and equipment for his department.

Hoffman had denied the charges, saying annual audits by state and federal governments cleared him of any wrong-doing.

Collapsed While Dressing

Hoffman, who had suffered from heart trouble recently, had been dead for seven or eight hours before his body was discovered late in the afternoon. He apparently had collapsed while dressing.

As governor of New Jersey from 1935 to 1937, Hoffman's term covered the sensation trial in which Bruno Richard Hauptmann was convicted of the kidnapping and slaying of 19-month-old Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

Several times Hoffman indicated he was not satisfied with the kidnapping investigation. He granted Hauptmann a 30-day reprieve but the death sentence was carried out after Hoffman said he had no legal power as governor to stay the execution further.

The former governor is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lillie May Hoffman, and two married daughters, Mrs. A. Leonard of Madison, N. J., and Mrs. Hope Cross, of Norfolk, Va.

Party Candidate in 1952 Disturbed by 'Abuse, Mistrust' Here and Abroad

New York, June 5 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said today America is suffering from a "national neurosis" of self-doubt and may be at the crossroads of democracy and totalitarianism.

"That we are not invulnerable . . . is, I think, demonstrated by many symptoms," he said, "of which McCarthyism . . . is only one."

The 1952 Democratic nominee for president told a biennial conference of Columbia University he has been disturbed "by what seems to me the chorus at home and abroad of irrational criticism, abuse and mistrust of America, its motives and its people."

"I don't mean just the . . . attacks on academic freedom, the pressure for conformity, our failures in the field of foreign affairs, or the present wretched manifestations in Washington of our national neurosis," he said in a prepared address.

(Although he did not say so, the "manifestations" he referred to apparently were the hearings involving the army and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).)

1,000 Pounders Laid on Convoys Traveling to Hanoi for Pincer Move by Enemy

Hanoi, Indochina, June 5 (AP)—French warplanes blew up a Vietnamese ammunition dump 35 miles east of here today and dived-bombed Communist-led rebel troops creeping toward this war capital on two roads.

A French army spokesman said the dump apparently was "an emergency storage area for small arms and mortar ammunition."

Direct hits by thousand pound bombs were reported on Vietminh convoys on Routes 13 and 41, the roads the rebels are using to move toward Hanoi from Dien Bien Phu in a pincer move. Pilots reported seeing several large explosions and fires.

The most advanced Vietminh column from Dien Bien Phu was reported 50 miles west of the Red river delta defense perimeter.

Vietminh saboteurs cut rails on the vital supply line between Hanoi and the Haiphong seaport. A French briefing officer said the damage was quickly repaired and traffic only briefly delayed.

President Scores Victory For 1954 Tax Program

Monitored Calls 'Blow Up' Army's Case, Says Senator

McCarthy Regards Hectic Developments Prelude to Final Victory for Him

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) claimed today the story told in long-secret monitored telephone calls "blows up" the army's case against him in his bitter battle with top Pentagon officials.

Before taking off for Ripon, Wis., to make a speech marking the 100th anniversary of the Republican party, McCarthy left no doubt that he regarded yesterday's hectic developments as a prelude to final victory in the swirling controversy.

He told newsmen that inclosures during the televised Senate probe into the dispute of hitherto unpublished transcripts of army-monitored phone conversations, between Senate investigations subcommittee senators and Secretary of the Army Stevens, "blows up their whole case."

The calls spilled into the hearing record one after another yesterday, breaking a logjam over their release that had held them back since soon after the public inquiry began April 22.

Called 'Exaggerated'

The calls quoted Stevens, in a March 8 talk with Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) shortly before the army filed its "pressure" charges against McCarthy and his aides, as saying that the current reports of preferential treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine "were very much exaggerated." The army's formal charges accused the McCarthy camp of seeking by improper means to win special privileges

Senate Committee Votes 9-4 for Lowering Dividends

Washington, June 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower scored a big victory for his 1954 tax program in Senate Finance Committee action yesterday on the omnibus tax revision bill.

The committee voted by the unexpectedly wide margin of 9 to 4, with two abstentions, to accept the last remaining major provision in the House-passed bill—the controversial plan to give substantial tax relief to stockholders on dividend incomes.

This provision—strongly sought by the administration—involves the biggest revenue loss in the bill except for the accelerated depreciation section which the committee approved Thursday.

The Senate group now expects to clean up work on the 875-page measure Monday or Tuesday.

However, the staff will have a lot of drafting work to do so the bill is not expected to be ready for the floor until about June 21.

Other Big Question

One big question that still may come up in the committee is a proposal for a general income tax cut by raising personal exemptions.

One veteran member, who declined use of his name, said the chance for a general reduction had been improved greatly by the group's decision to retain the dividend income relief provision.

This also was the view of Sen. George (D-Ga.), senior committee Democrat. Asked after the vote yesterday whether the action brightened the chances for a general income tax cut of some kind, he said:

"I would think so. I would hate to go to the floor with a bill which gave this dividend relief and didn't do anything for 90 per cent

Solution Is Necessary For Unity

Trouble Within Group Is Over Giving More Authority to Head, Lewis L. Strauss

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Rep. Holifield (D-Calif.) said today congressional testimony has disclosed a "serious rift" within the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) "over giving more power to its chairman."

The issue, he said in an interview, "must be resolved before we can have a harmoniously functioning commission."

The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, of which Holifield is a member, asked the five AEC commissioners for more public testimony today on a proposal to name the chairman as the group's "principal officer."

Commissioner Eugene M. Zuckert, who has opposed the proposal, and Commissioner Joseph Campbell, reportedly favoring it, have their turn to speak today.

Two Oppose Change

Commissioners Henry D. Smyth and Thomas E. Murray both opposed the proposed change yesterday and urged that the present equal status of all commissioners be retained.

Holifield said the issue was so serious that it could not be settled merely by deleting the phrase "principal officer" from a bill now before the committee.

"It will take joint action by the committee and the commission to settle it," he said.

Made Clear, He Says

He said Strauss' testimony "made it very clear he felt he should be given added power" over that provided by the present law.

Smyth said a "certain amount of tension" always existed within the commission and had become a "little greater" since Strauss was named chairman nearly a year ago.

Strauss testified that, as chairman, he has made no policy decisions without the approval of the commission and said he frequently was in the minority on "a few" recent split votes.

Raid Sirens Will Be Tested Monday

Action Is to Prepare for June 14 Trial in Whole Nation

In preparation for the first nationwide air raid drill for all 160,000,000 Americans which will be held on Monday, June 14, a test of air raid sirens will take place on Monday at 10 a. m.

This is a Civil Defense Test. No participation by the public is required and the test is simply to enable the public to recognize these warnings.

On Monday, June 14, at some time during the morning the first nationwide air raid drill will be held and at that time the public as well as all Civil Defense personnel will actively participate.

Col. Allan L. Hanstein, director of Civil Defense for the Ulster Kingston Civil Defense Council, today said, "Remember the sirens will sound a Civil Defense air raid warning at 10 o'clock Monday morning, June 7. This is a test for the audible signals and to enable the public to recognize these warnings."

"Do not telephone the police, fire departments, or your neighbors about these signals."

The public will not participate in this test, but will be involved in the nation-wide test "Operations Alert" on Monday and Tuesday, June 14 and 15.

Market Continues 9-Month Upward Move to New Levels

New York, June 5 (AP)—The stock market kept shoving right on up to new peak levels this week, just as it has been doing for nearly nine months.

There was some faltering, of course, and the market ended the holiday-shortened week right where it was a week ago.

Nevertheless, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was able during the four-day week to push up to a new high mark—the best level for the average since Oct. 25, 1929.

Ever since the middle of September, the market has been coursing upward with little pauses now and then for consolidation of its gains. It was that kind of a situation again this week.

It has been happening so often that some brokers are beginning

Mediators to Meet On Cement Strike In N.Y. Monday

Union and Management Spokesmen to Attend; Other Crafts Are Hit by Stoppage

Pouring of concrete on Thruway construction in this area remained practically at a standstill today as federal and state mediators prepared to meet in New York Monday in an effort to settle issues in the month-old cement plant strikes.

A three-man panel will meet with union and management representatives in an attempt to settle the strikes which have stalled major construction projects in New York and Pennsylvania.

Director Whitley P. McCoy of the Federal Mediation Service arranged Friday for the panel to sit down with representatives of the Universal Atlas Cement Co., and the AFL Cement Workers Union.

Many Affected
The cement industry strikes, which have stopped work at several plants in the Saugerties-Catskill area, have also been felt by other construction workers in the Hudson Valley. Several hundred carpenters in the area served by the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters have been laid off, for instance, according to a report by George E. Yerry, Jr.

Plants operated in New York state and in the Allentown, Pa., area by Universal Atlas and by Lehigh, Lone Star and North American Cement companies have been idled for nearly a month. All strikes involve the same union.

Recent union settlements with cement companies in the Middle West have called for about a five-cent-an-hour wage boost, but officials have said the union is seeking more than that in New York and Pennsylvania.

Boxer Says He Is Innocent of Charges About $15,000 to 'Fix' Fight at Garden

New York, June 5 (P)—Clarence Henry, the one-time No. 3 contender for the heavyweight championship, was arraigned today on a bribery charge in the most bizarre boxing "fix" plot that has rocked New York in decades.

Henry was accused of offering $15,000 to Bobby Jones to throw his June 11 middleweight bout against Joey Giardello, in Madison Square Garden.

While experts scratched their heads, wondering why anyone would try to fix the 2-1 underdog, the former title contender asserted his innocence.

"This is all a mistake," he said. "I went to see Bobby because I always see him when we're in town. We're friends. They had to get somebody and I was the chosen party."

He did not say who "they" were.

Just about everyone involved in the case was annoyed at someone with the possible exception of Jones, a fair fighter, but regarded as no match for the rugged Giardello.

District Attorney Frank Hogan was irked because the story was broken before he was ready to move in. He said he had intended to try to round up the "whole mob" just before the fight.

Saboteurs Cut Rails
Vietminh saboteurs cut rails on the vital supply line between Hanoi and the Haiphong seaport. A French briefing officer said the damage was quickly repaired and traffic only briefly delayed.

Vietnamese rail guards withdrew under rebel attack from a post near Haiduong, 32 miles east of Hanoi on the Haiphong road. But the post was retaken by French Union forces at daybreak and the supply route for American war material was not endangered, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, U. S. sources in Saigon said plans to airlift three

Farm Militia Is Guatemala Plan

Leftist Federation to Meet Sunday to Discuss Arms Project

Guatemala, June 5 (P)—The National Farm Federation called on the farm workers in uneasy Guatemala today to organize a laborers' militia to "guarantee defense of the national sovereignty and the revolution."

The Leftist-run federation said meetings had been scheduled Sunday in Zacapa, Progreso and Guatemala City at which the project would be outlined.

The announcement did not make clear whether the plans included training with military weapons. A broadcast from a clandestine anti-government radio, (Continued on Page 10, Col. 4)

Called 'Exaggerated'
The calls quoted Stevens, in a March 8 talk with Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) shortly before the army filed its "pressure" charges against McCarthy and his aides, as saying that the current reports of preferential treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine "were very much exaggerated." The army's formal charges accused the McCarthy camp of seeking by improper means to win special privileges (Continued on Page 10, Col. 5)

They Set up a trap with recording equipment installed in Jones' hotel room. They also placed under observation Gleason's Gym in the Bronx where Jones trained.

Jones, a 28-year-old Oakland, Calif., fighter with five children, was told to continue training as usual.

Thursday morning he received four calls at Gleason's from Philadelphia. One was from Henry.

Henry: "Bobby, I've got to see you as soon as possible about a very important business matter."

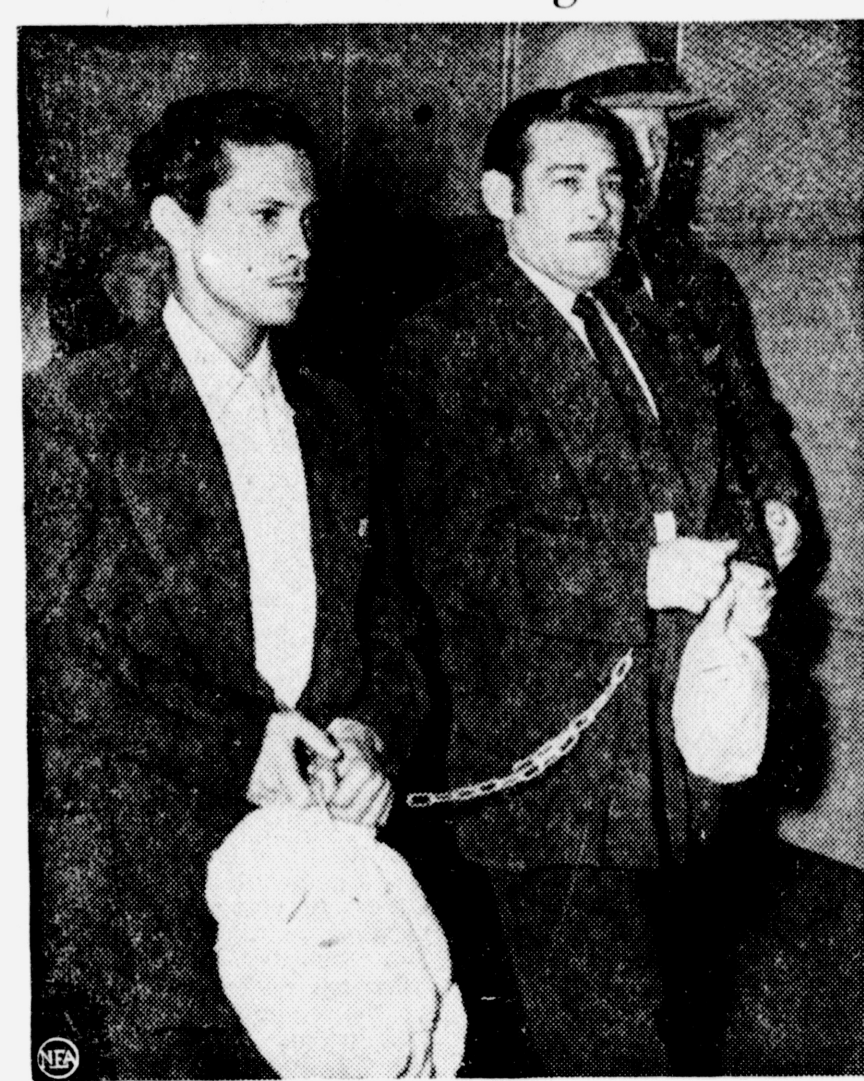

Jones: "I'll be in my hotel room at noon."

Henry: "Fine, but be sure you're alone. I'll be there."

Detectives covered Jones' hotel and Henry appeared on schedule, without preliminaries, Henry offered Jones $15,000 to throw the fight. The latter demurred, as instructed, commenting that he didn't think Henry could raise

President Scores Victory For 1954 Tax Program

Monitored Calls 'Blow Up' Army's Case, Says Senator

McCarthy Regards Hectic Developments Prelude to Final Victory for Him

Washington, June 5 (P)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) claimed today the story told in long-secret monitored telephone calls "blows up" the army's case against him in his bitter battle with top Pentagon officials.

Before taking off for Ripon, Wis., to make a speech marking the 100th anniversary of the Republican party, McCarthy left no doubt that he regarded yesterday's hectic developments as a prelude to final victory in the swirling controversy.

He told newsmen that inclosures during the televised Senate probe into the dispute of hitherto unpublished transcripts of army-monitored phone conversations, between Senate investigations subcommittee senators and Secretary of the Army Stevens, "blows up their whole case."

The calls spilled into the hearing record one after another yesterday, breaking a logjam over their release that had held them back since soon after the public inquiry began April 22.

Other Big Question
One big question that still may come up is the committee's proposal for a general income tax cut by raising personal exemptions.

One veteran member, who declined use of his name, said the chance for a general reduction had been improved greatly by the group's decision to retain the dividend income relief provision.

This also was the view of Sen. George (D-Ga.), senior committee Democrat. Asked after the vote yesterday whether the action brightened the chances for a general income tax cut of some kind, he said:

"I would think so. I would hate to go to the floor with a bill which gave this dividend relief and didn't do anything for 90 per cent of the people."

Market Continues 9-Month Upward Move to New Levels

New York, June 5 (P)—The stock market kept shoving right on up to new peak levels this week, just as it has been doing for nearly nine months.

There was some faltering, of course, and the market ended the holiday-shortened week right where it was a week ago.

Nevertheless, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was able during the four-day week to push up to a new high mark—the best level for the average since Oct. 25, 1929.

Ever since the middle of September, the market has been coursing upward with little pauses now and then for consolidation of its gains. It was that kind of a situation again this week.

It has been happening so often that, some brokers are beginning to get a little restive about the possibility of a reaction that could attain sizable dimensions and still be within the bounds of a normal retrenchment of values.

One broker said he found no signs of internal weakness in the market but he felt that some unexpected piece of news could knock the market off its feet with little trouble.

Stocks this week, however, gave no sign of faltering seriously. Individual issues responded immediately to favorable developments, and whole sections of the market moved ahead when the background suited that action. Here is an example.

On one day the railroads were confronted with a report from the Assn. of American Railroads showing estimated net income for class one railroads in the first

Senate Committee Votes 9-4 for Lowering Levies on Stock Dividends

Washington, June 5 (P)—President Eisenhower scored a big victory for his 1954 tax program in Senate Finance Committee action yesterday on the omnibus tax revision bill.

The committee voted by the unexpectedly wide margin of 9 to 4, with two abstentions, to accept the last remaining major provision in the House-passed bill—the controversial plan to give substantial tax relief to stockholders on dividend incomes.

This provision—strongly sought by the administration—involves the biggest revenue loss in the bill except for the accelerated depreciation section which the committee approved Thursday.

The Senate group now expects to clean up work on the 875-page measure Monday or Tuesday. However, the staff will have a lot of drafting work to do so the bill is not expected to be ready for the floor until about June 21.

He said Strauss' testimony "made it very clear he felt he should be given added power" over that provided by the present law.

Smyth said a "certain amount of tension" always existed within the commission and had become a "little greater" since Strauss was named chairman nearly a year ago.

Strauss testified that, as chairman, he has made no policy decisions without the approval of the commission and said he frequently was in the minority on a "few" recent split votes.

Solution Is Necessary For Unity

Trouble Within Group Is Over Giving More Authority to Head, Lewis L. Strauss

Washington, June 5 (P)—Rep. Holifield (D-Calif.) said today congressional testimony has disclosed a "serious rift" within the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) "over giving more power to its chairman."

The issue, he said in an interview, "must be resolved before we can have a harmoniously functioning commission."

The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, of which Holifield is a member, asked the five AEC commissioners for more public testimony today on a proposal to name the chairman as the group's "principal officer."

Commissioner Eugene M. Zuckert, who has opposed the proposal, and Commissioner Joseph Campbell, reportedly favoring it, have their turn to speak today.

Two Oppose Change
Commissioners Henry D. Smyth and Thomas E. Murray both opposed the proposed change yesterday and urged that the present equal status of all commissioners be retained.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss testified his position was "not one of opposition or advocacy" for the change. But he said that on the basis of past business experience "I can most earnestly state that it is not possible, effectively, to operate—and I emphasize the word operate—a large business enterprise by committee."

But he said that on the basis of past business experience "I can most earnestly state that it is not possible, effectively, to operate—and I emphasize the word operate—a large business enterprise by committee."

Holifield said the issue was so serious that it could not be settled merely by deleting the phrase "principal officer" from a bill now before the committee.

"It will take joint action by the committee and the commission to settle it," he said.

Made Clear, He Says

Raid Sirens Will Be Tested Monday

Action Is to Prepare for June 14 Trial in Whole Nation

In preparation for the first nationwide air raid drill for all 160,000,000 Americans which will be held on Monday, June 14, a test of air raid sirens will take place on Monday at 10 a. m.

This is a Civil Defense Test. No participation by the public is required and the test is simply to enable the public to recognize these warnings.

On Monday, June 14, at some time during the morning the first nationwide air raid drill will be held and at that time the public as well as all Civil Defense personnel will actively participate.

Col. Allan L. Hanstein, Director of Civil Defense for the United States, said, "Remember the sirens will sound a Civil Defense air raid warning at 10 o'clock Monday morning, June 14. This is a test for the public to recognize these warnings."

"Do not telephone the police, fire departments, or your neighbors about these signals."

The public will not participate in the nationwide test "Operations Alert" on Monday and Tuesday, June 14 and 15.

Do You Remember

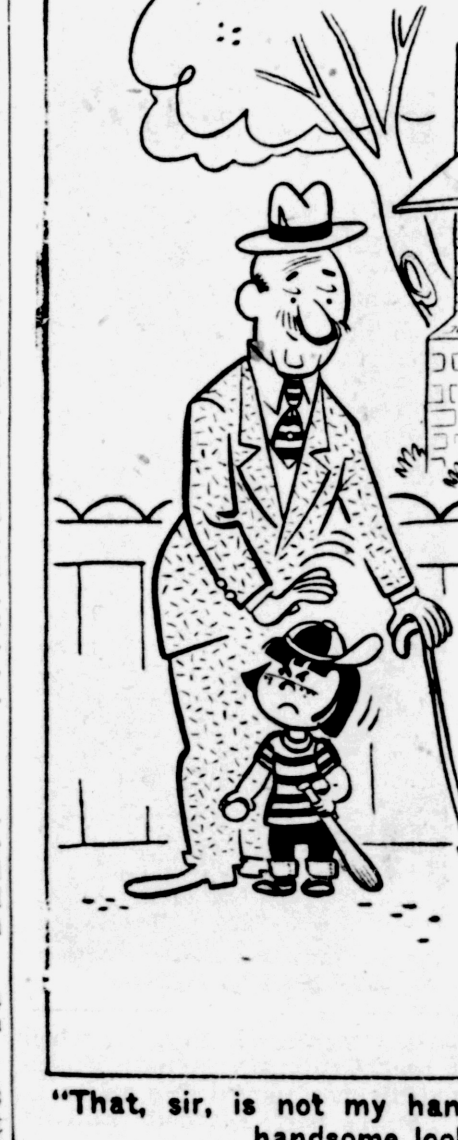

By SOPHIE MILLER

I was asked details of the building of the docks of the Strand, Ferry street, in Rondout, but so far I have not run across the information. I thought I would find it in The Delaware and Hudson Canal by Edwin D. Le Roy (published by Wayne Co. Historical Society). This excellent little book was sent to me some time ago through the compliments of James A. O'Boyle, 15 Moore street, New York city of the Wayne Co. Historical Society of Honesdale, Pa. I cannot put it in writing as to how I have enjoyed this little book and the two large maps that, with the book sent by Mr. O'Boyle. Much has happened since W. R. Hopkins, a prominent engineer wrote an article for the Albany Evening Journal Oct. 15, 1830 in which he said: "There are places enough to make railroads where water cannot be had for canals and to such places they should be confined. I am opposed to seeing the streams of our state run idle and the spirit of an enlightened canal policy swept away by railroad fanatics." Of course the economy of transportation by canal could not be questioned, for back in 1831, you could ship a whole ton of molasses, sugar or liquor per mile for 1 cent, which would be about 30 cents from Kingston to Newburgh, if the route went that way.

The following chairmen have been appointed for the conduct of the 60th anniversary of the dedication of the Clintondale Methodist Church Sunday, June 20: Invitations and publicity, Mrs. Edna Allhusen, Milton; refreshments, members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, under the direction of their president, Miss Isadora Livingston; decorations, Miss Irene Sackler; preparations of property, Walter Beatty; music, Miss Lu Smalley; history, Miss Dorothy Roosa; program, the Rev. John E. Swords.

Mrs. Walter Hoffman of Bearsville was among guests entertained recently by her nephew, Earl B. DeVitt Sr., and family here.

Kindergarten registration is being conducted at the Modena School Wednesday from 3 to 4 p. m.

Miss Glennie M. Wager has returned from a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Crawford and family at Hugsbown on Tuesday. Mrs. Frank Crawford Sr., of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Crawford of Hugsbown and Miss Wager enjoyed a trip over the Shawangunk and Minnewasqui Trails, the Catskill Mountain area and The Vly Methodist Church, Miss Wager's father, the late Abram D. Wager, assisted in the building of the church 60 years ago.

Robert Daunt, Frank Gabriel, Barbara Molsen, Patricia Pagente and Ellen Tozzi were among a class of 160 children confirmed at St. Joseph's Church in New Paltz recently.

Mrs. Lester A. Wager Sr. was a recent visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. Melvin Carroll in New Paltz.

The Indians, who first used the waterways in these parts, found the canals to their liking too for the following is taken from the Milford Eagle of August 6, 1831: "Two Tuscarora Indians with their squaws and paposes arrived at this place, Friday last, by water, in bark canoes in which they traveled from Buffalo by way of the Erie Canal to the North river and from that river into the Delaware and Hudson Canal and so into the Delaware river, a short distance above Carpenter's Point. They are shortly to leave for Pottsville in this state."

During July 1841 the famous author, Washington Irving with Philip Hone, Henry Brevoort and other officials, made a trip over the canal. Hone said, "they took pleasure in the very inconveniences of the small canal boat, making their beds on the hard planks, eating in primitive fashions and traveling three miles an hour. "Geoffrey Crayon (Irving) enjoyed himself to the top of bent. Apparently it was something wonderful for him to forego his daytime nap." Irving was impressed with the trip from Honesdale. He wrote to his sister in Paris in part: "I do not know when I have made a more gratifying excursion with respect to natural scenery—for many miles the canal is built along the face of perpendicular precipices rising into stupendous cliffs, with overhanging forest, or jutting out into vast promontories, while upon the other side you look down upon the Delaware, roaring and foaming below you, at the foot of an immense wall of embankment which supports the canal."

Washington Irving continued to his sister: "Altogether, it is one of the most daring undertakings I have ever witnessed to carry an artificial river over rocky mountains and up the most savage and almost impractical defiles. For upward of 90 miles I went through a constant succession of scenery that would have been famous had it existed in any part of Europe."

Place Wainscots In the Nurseries

When one gets around to a major cleaning in the nursery, it may be found that the youngsters have played havoc with wall decorations, probably going so far as to break holes in the plaster.

Many householders have found it desirable to place wainscots in nurseries to prevent the need for frequent repairing and repainting.

Choice of Material Offered
Wainscots can be made of hardboard (smooth, pressed composition boards made of exploded wood chips, that can be sawed like lumber); plywood, which comes in varying thicknesses—one-quarter inch, three-eighths inch, half inch and so on; composition boards finished to simulate leather, or thin paneling of wood in mahogany, birch, pine, cedar and other woods.

The hardboards and composition boards may be painted or enameled. The wood paneling and plywood can be stained, waxed, shellacked, varnished, painted or enameled.

Nail Over Bad Plaster
Most of these materials can be nailed directly over bad plaster to studs spaced 16 inches or 24 inches on centers. Or, if the plaster is bad only in spots, special adhesive may be used to secure the wainscot.

Various householders like such wainscots for bedrooms of youngsters or for dens, where the wear and tear is above normal. Such wainscots can stand a lot of scuffing, hard knocks and bruises with furniture shoved against them.

'Unpaint' Pieces For a Better Job

If furniture has been painted so often that the old coating is thick and lumpy, it's wise to remove the old paint before applying the new. This treatment calls for paint and varnish remover, steel wool and a scraping tool of some sort. The remover is applied to a section of the piece, allowed to soak in and soften the old coating, then scraped off and cleaned with steel wool or fine sandpaper.

When the remnants of the remover have been finally cleaned off—usually with a solvent—a priming coat of enamel undercoater can be applied and the final coats brushed onto this receptive base.

Prisoner to Talk

New York, June 5 (AP)—The prosecution says William Howell will be confronted next week by James Sanders, an imprisoned robber, who claims he and Howell discussed the Thomas F. Lewis slaying while both were held in Bronx city prison. Howell, 35, is being tried for first degree murder in the slaying of Lewis, AFL boss of Yonkers Raceway. Lewis was killed last Aug. 28. His slayer, ex-convict Edward (Snake) Ryan, 55, was shot to death in a gun battle with a policeman while fleeing the murder scene. Howell, former pari-mutuels clerk at the Yonkers track, is charged with being the driver of a car intended as a getaway by Ryan.

Two Youths Shot

New York, June 5 (AP)—Two Bronx youths were shot from ambush last night as they stood with a group of boys at the southwest corner of Cauldwell and Westchester avenues, Bronx police reported. The boys were identified as Richard Lenoci, 17, of 517 East 156th street, who was shot in the chest, and Michael Chavelli, 18, of 679 Cauldwell avenue, shot in the left arm. They were taken to Lincoln Hospital. The shooting occurred shortly after 10:30 p. m.

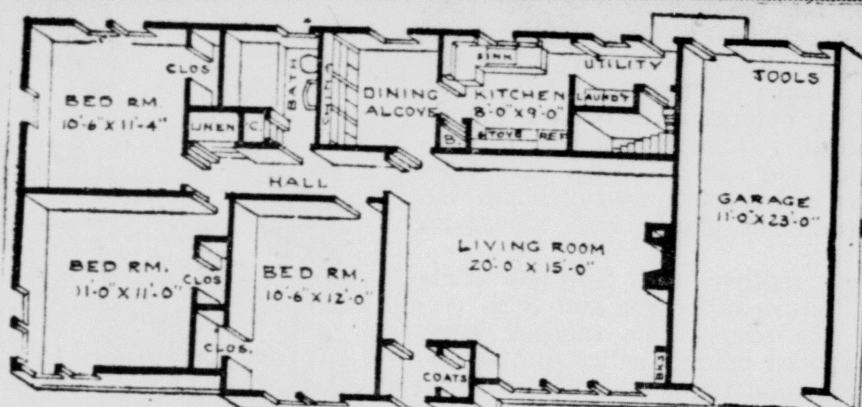

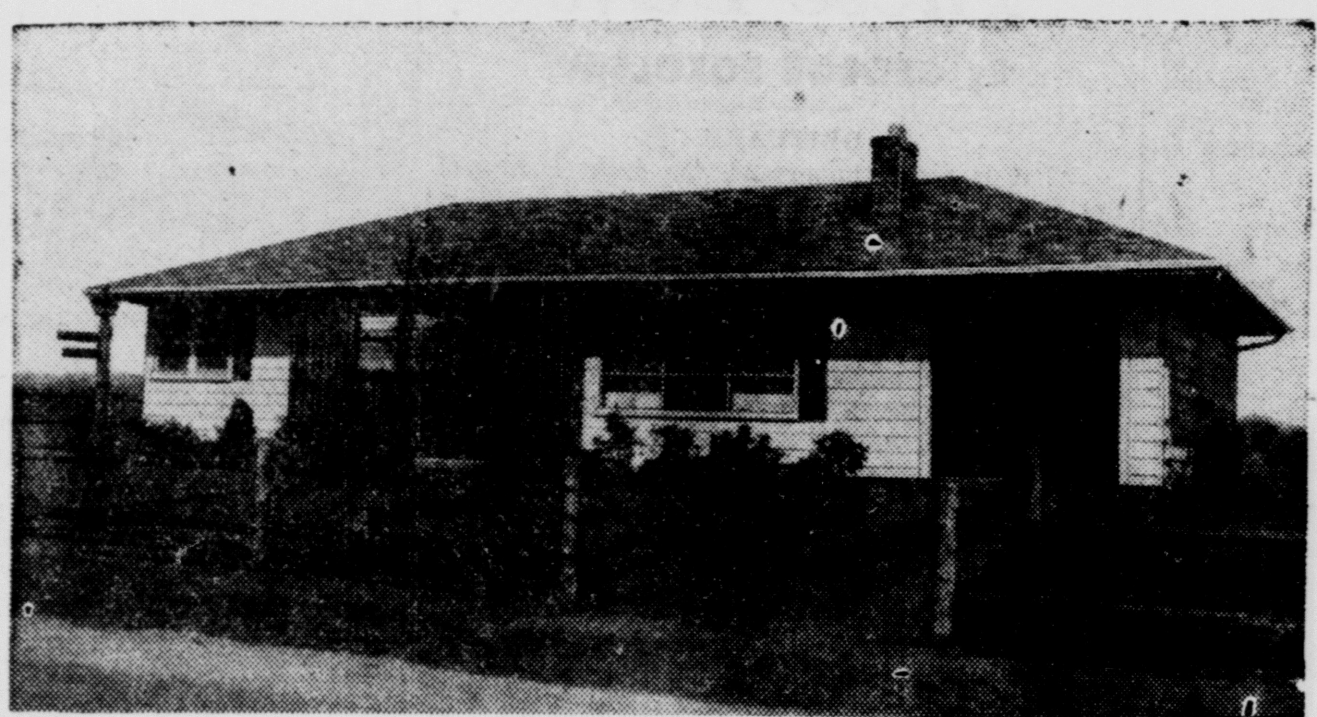

Observe Progress

Whether an architect is on the job or not while a house is being built, some member of the family should make frequent visits to the site to observe the progress of the work and make sure nothing goes wrong.

Color for Screens

Window screen frames should be painted the same color as the window and door trim of the house.

'The BOULDER'

'Boulder' Has Homey, Informal Air

Rooms Six
Bedrooms Three
Closets Six
Cubage 27,900 ft.
Dimensions 58' x 24'

The homey informality of "The Boulder," offered today by the Home of the Week Plan Service, is accentuated by the slight overhang of the hip roof which seems to more closely tie this one-story house to the ground.

Containing six good-sized rooms, "The Boulder" measures 58'x24' and has a cubage of 27,900 feet. At least an 80-foot lot would be needed to build this house and attached garage.

Shingles or clapboards will make an exterior finish in keeping with the architectural simplicity of "The Boulder." To give a more rustic air to the house you may choose to follow the example of the illustration and face the center section of the house with strips of stained wood to match the stained plank fence. Such an exterior decorative treatment will prove especially effective if you have "The Boulder" constructed in a rural or suburban location.

Not Rustic

Inside, there's nothing rustic about "The Boulder," however; it's just as modern as you could desire.

Three large bedrooms, each with a large closet, provide plenty of sleeping space for the average family as well as an abundance of individual storage space. The large linen closet opens on the central hallway conveniently near to all three bedrooms and the bath.

There's no breakfast nook in "The Boulder," but the dining alcove, opening directly off the kitchen, is an ideal place for the family to eat all their meals. It's equally appropriate for a formal dinner. Cupboards built along the entire left wall of the dining alcove can be used for storing all sorts of china and glassware; you'll find the closed-in drawers beneath the cabinets ideal for storing your fresh table linens.

Big Laundry

Also opening off the kitchen, the laundry is sufficiently large to hold your complete home laundry equipment. Easy access to the back yard is provided by a door in the back wall of the laundry—utility room.

In addition to ample space for overhead storage the garage attached to "The Boulder" has room near the back wall for a work bench and tool storage area. The back window will provide the home handyman with light while he's using his work bench.

Install your heating equipment under the living room in the basement of "The Boulder." This will leave sufficient space for a recreation room and also for additional storage space.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Choice of Screws

Screws are made of several different metals but steel and brass are most commonly used. Brass is not as strong as steel and brass screws should not be used for heavy duty jobs.

Combination Bedroom

Bedrooms have become combination sleeping, dressing and sitting rooms with books, radio, and lounging chairs instead of the traditional five-piece bedroom suite.

Protects the Eyes

You can keep dust and debris out of your eyes and face when drilling through a ceiling with a brace and bit by slipping the bit through a paper cup. The cup will catch anything that drops down.

Shower Mixing Valve

Special types of mixing valves are available for showers, which provide positive protection against sharp changes in either the volume or temperature of the water.

Heating System Should Be Checked

The danger of fire in the home may be greatly reduced by the observation of a few simple rules related to the care and operation of the heating system, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

It offers these tips:
Have your heating plant cleaned. This means cleaning all soot and fly ash from heating surfaces.

Practice good housekeeping around your heating plant. Too often, the Bureau observes, the heater room is a repository for rubbish and waste paper, all of which constitute a fire hazard. Oily rags are particularly dangerous. If coal is used, have a covered container of adequate size for depositing ash and cinders.

Have your heating plant inspected for leaks in fire-and-flue-cleaning doors.

Be sure your chimney is clean and free from cracks. Clean and check the smoke pipe leading from the boiler or furnace to the chimney, making sure that it has not developed leaks through corrosion. Be sure that damper doors, draft doors and chains and pulleys work smoothly.

If you have a warm-air heating system, be sure the filters are clean. Replace or clean dirty filters. Check insulation on warm air ducts.

Don't use kerosene to start or quicken fires; don't search for or attempt to repair any gas leaks.

Finish the Wallboard

Plastic paint makes a good finish for walls and ceilings covered with wallboard that has been improperly installed, leaving the joints between panels much in evidence. The plastic paint has sufficient body to completely conceal these joints.

'The BOULDER''Boulder' Has Homey, Informal Air

Rooms Six

Bedrooms Three

Closets Six

Cubage 27,900 ft.

Dimensions 58' x 24'

The homey informality of "The Boulder," offered today by the Home of the Week Plan Service, is accentuated by the slight overhang of the hip roof which seems to more closely tie this one-story house to the ground.

Containing six good-sized rooms, "The Boulder" measures 58'x24' and has a cubage of 27,900 feet. At least an 80-foot lot would be needed to build this house and attached garage.

Shingles or clapboards will make an exterior finish in keeping with the architectural simplicity of "The Boulder." To give a more rustic air to the house you may choose to follow the example of the illustration and face the center section of the house with strips of stained wood to match the stained plank fence. Such an exterior decorative treatment will prove especially effective if you have "The Boulder" constructed in a rural or suburban location.

Not Rustic

Inside, there's nothing rustic about "The Boulder," however; it's just as modern as you could desire.

Three large bedrooms, each with a large closet, provide plenty of sleeping space for the average family as well as an abundance of individual storage space. The large linen closet opens on the central hallway conveniently near to all three bedrooms and the bath.

There's no breakfast nook in "The Boulder," but the dining alcove, opening directly off the kitchen, is an ideal place for the family to eat all their meals. It's equally appropriate for a formal dinner. Cupboards built along the entire left wall of the dining alcove can be used for storing all sorts of china and glassware; you'll find the closed-in drawers beneath the cabinets ideal for storing your fresh table linens.

Big Laundry

Also opening off the kitchen, the laundry is sufficiently large to hold your complete home laundry equipment. Easy access to the back yard is provided by a door in the back wall of the laundry—utility room.

In addition to ample space for overhead storage the garage attached to "The Boulder" has room near the back wall for a work bench and tool storage area. The back window will provide the home handyman with light while he's using his work bench.

Install your heating equipment under the living room in the basement of "The Boulder." This will leave sufficient space for a recreation room and also for additional storage space.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Choice of Screws

Screws are made of several different metals but steel and brass are most commonly used. Brass is not as strong as steel and brass screws should not be used for heavy duty jobs.

Combination Bedroom

Bedrooms have become combination sleeping, dressing and sitting rooms with books, radio, and lounging chairs instead of the traditional five-piece bedroom suite.

Protects the Eyes

You can keep dust and debris out of your eyes and face when drilling through a ceiling with a brace and bit by slipping the bit through a paper cup. The cup will catch anything that drops down.

Shower Mixing Valve

Special types of mixing valves are available for showers, which provide positive protection against sharp changes in either the volume or temperature of the water.

check the smoke pipe leading from the boiler or furnace to the chimney, making sure that it has not developed leaks through corrosion. Be sure that damper doors, draft doors and chains and pulleys work smoothly.

If you have a warm-air heating system, be sure the filters are clean. Replace or clean dirty filters. Check insulation on warm air ducts.

Don't use kerosene to start or quicken fires; don't search for or attempt to repair any gas leaks.

Finish the Wallboard

Plastic paint makes a good finish for walls and ceilings covered with wallboard that has been improperly installed, leaving the joints between panels much in evidence. The plastic paint has sufficient body to completely conceal these joints.

GRADUATION

It would be pleasant if we could say to the young people who will be graduated shortly from our schools and colleges "do this," or "do that" and you will surely succeed, "go this way" and you can avoid danger and mistakes. Unfortunately ours is not the kind of world, and these are not the kind of times, when such positive advice can be given, except in the most general of terms.

By its nature youth is impatient with advice, so eager to get on with the job of living that it resents being detained for the length of time it must spend to listen. This impatience is understandable. Yet if the young people do listen they may be able to spare themselves some of the setbacks and disappointments that those who have gone before have encountered. The young must realize that there is a great difference between long-winded attempts to impress them and sincere advice; between clichés and eternal verities which are no less true because they are frequently recounted.

Honesty, diligence, courage, a thirst for knowledge, are still the ingredients of real success. Faith is still a bulwark against fear, hope is still an antidote for disappointment.

Too often commencement addresses and editorials assume that graduates are just beginning life, that the years spent in school were part of an unreal world which vanishes when the graduate receives his diploma. This is not the case; graduation is merely one more milestone along the way. Nor does the task of learning end there, except for the man who is a fool.

The world has a great need for the enthusiasm and the boundless energy of the young. As they turn to the task they have elected for themselves let them know that they can look to their elders for advice and assistance whenever they need it; let them also know that their elders look to them with hope.

SCHOOLS OF THE SOUTH

The South spends a greater portion of its income on schools than any other section, according to the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education. From 1940 to 1952 expenditures per pupil in the South increased more than three times. Every state showed a substantial gain.

School equipment, notably in books, is still below what it should be. This is true in schools for white children, and more so in those for Negroes. Abolition of segregation, required by the recent Supreme Court decision, would not of itself remove the deficiencies. It would simply mean, under present conditions, that some Negro children would go to better schools, and some whites to worse.

As might be expected from the funds they have available, the Southern cities have done better than the rural areas. In some rural counties the best white schools are inferior to the cities' worst schools for Negroes.

All this means a long pull. Fortunately the South recognizes its needs and is doing its best to meet them.

VACATION PLANS

Vacation time is about to descend upon the United States once more. In the next three months millions of Americans will travel millions of miles, and will spend many millions of dollars, in quest of fun, relaxation and rest. Along with these they will get a dash of sunburn, seasickness and not a few automobile accidents.

While no one would deny or belittle the pleasure of the vacation itself, most people will admit that at least half the fun lies in planning it. Thumbing through road maps, hotel brochures, tourist books or cruise advertisements gives added pleasure to many a long, hot June afternoon or evening.

During this planning stage, the confines of the bankroll can be forgotten. It becomes possible to picture the spectacular beauty of the San Bernadino valley in California, to climb the Rockies of Colorado, or to take a boat trip along the banks of the Wisconsin River. A Great Lakes cruise, a ride along the Blue Ridge Mountains of the Carolinas or a fishing trip to Maine all spread themselves invitingly before the vacationer who

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

OBITUARY

What is really important, the great events of the day or the small events of our private lives? A child is born. A child graduates from school. A daughter marries. A son gets his first job. These are the joys of life, and among them there are pains, too.

And no pain perhaps hurts more than the death of a beloved dog. I have been watching my dog, Brownie, die of cancer. As in a human, the malady starts unnoticed. And then it is evident that something is wrong. And then there is the confusion of diagnosis and the deceit that does not deceive. And then there is hope beyond hope, optimism that does not help, belief that a remedy will be found that is not found. My Brownie did not know how ill she was until mercifully her heart gave out. For there is this about a dog: when a dog is ill, she is sorry for her master. She regrets that she cannot wag her tail so enthusiastically when he enters the house. She is mortified that she cannot hold her head high when he cannot hold her food or when the choking enlargement of her glands keeps her master awake. Dogs have a way of conveying ideas without the spoken word. It is like lovers who gaze at each other across a myriad clouds and understand the glance that leaves an eternal memory.

I knew Brownie's mother well. She had come out of Ireland, a mixture of beagle and Irish terrier, who worked the sheep. The mother knew little English, her speech being Gaelic. And so the American troops stationed there called her "Dammie," which somehow she understood. She went through the war in Belgium, France and Germany and learned when not to bark and what to do mid shot and shell. Dammie by some means came into our land in a duffle bag. Her first litter in this country was a product of unselected love and Brownie was one of it.

And Brownie came to us almost immediately after birth to be the companion of small children. But she turned to me for friendship and assurance and during the early years, sat with me as I worked, understanding that real affection does not interrupt or destroy. And during those years I would talk to her of the forces and events of these days, of men great and small. And as we roamed the city park or country field and woods, ideas came to me in this unselected conversation and somehow one was a bit ashamed of the mean and small and vindictive, for no such qualities could be in a dog who only lives to love.

And then we got a teletypewriter, which is a noisy thing, and Brownie deserted me for my wife, a calm soul to domesticity inclined. Thus, Brownie lived quietly, knowing and attending to everybody's business. When the dinner bell rang, she rounded up the family and counted them to make sure that there were no stragglers. She always entered the dining room last with an air of authority.

I have been told by those who can only pretend to knowledge that animals do not think, that they live by instinct. It is not true. Dogs do think and they do understand many human emotions and if those they love quarrel or are in trouble, a dog will know and will express sympathy. It was always difficult not only to punish but to chastise our children, because Brownie stood between parent and child, protecting the child and scolding the parent. When one raised his voice, Brownie went to the member of the family criticized and licked a hand or even a shoe.

She knew most of my friends and loved most dearly Ward Bond, the actor, whom she only saw rarely on his occasional visits East. One night, I returned home very early in the morning. As I came home and got at unusual times, Brownie never barked at my arrival, but on this one occasion as I opened the door, there was one sharp, peremptory yelp. I rushed to my wife's bedroom. She had been telephoning to Hollywood because Ward was ill and she was worried. And Brownie was worried and called me to come quickly. She knew it was important.

And Brownie is no more and it will be hard to open the front door and not see her smiling face—the smile of complete love.

That Body of Yours

REDUCING PAIN AND DISTRESS IN ULCER

When a drug of the proprietary type obtains brilliant results within a few minutes in giving relief from the pain of peptic ulcer, it is certainly considered successful. I refer to the drug Bantnine which I have mentioned before.

In Medical Clinics of North America we learn that Bantnine is the trade name of G. S. Searle and Company, a product of a chemical compound. It has been known for only three years, but its beneficial effects have become dramatic and it appeared as early as 1952 in the medical literature, where it was stated that Bantnine was useful as an aid in the treatment of peptic ulcer, gastritis, pancreatitis, mucous colitis, irritable bowel, irritation of the bladder, and the control of excessive perspiration which aggravates certain skin conditions.

Bantnine is supplied in 50 mg. tablets and the average dose by mouth is one or two tablets usually at meal time and at night.

It is generally agreed that for all stomach and intestinal diseases mentioned above, Bantnine should be used as an adjunct (an aid) and should not replace the usual treatment. When it is added to the usual dietary and sedative treatment of peptic ulcer, pain is usually more promptly relieved than with atropine.

Bantnine should not be used when certain diseases or conditions are present such as glaucoma, swelling of the eyeballs, obstruction of flow of urine, compound fracture, obstruction of flow of bile, obstruction at top of stomach, immediately before and after operations, and in heart failure.

Although Bantnine has no curative effect in ulcerative colitis, it does help in decreasing the number of bowel movements and abdominal distress. X-ray and other studies have also shown that Bantnine decreases the severity and frequency of intestinal contractions or spasms.

Finally, reducing excessive perspiration is a real find for this special treatment has long been undiscovered. Not only is excessive sweating embarrassing and uncomfortable but it also aggravates certain skin conditions.

Studies so far have shown that recurrence of symptoms has occurred in roughly 30 per cent of cases on the usual ulcer protective program plus Bantnine. To date there has not been reported any long-term follow-up study on these patients in whom recurrence of ulcer symptoms did not develop while on Bantnine therapy but this may be reported in the future.

begins planning in June. His mind may wander to the pink beaches of Bermuda, the snow-capped Alpine peaks of Switzerland, the historic castles of England or the fiestas of Spain. And all these plans are free.

Actually vacations, whether spent in the backyard or thousands of miles from home, are important. They can pay dividends in happiness, new experiences, new sights and new acquaintances. They should be planned carefully for the maximum enjoyment, and planning can be the best fun of all.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—Harvard's young President Nathan M. Pusey, who came from Iowa originally, delivered a load of good midwestern horse sense on the subject of "Loyalty and Freedom in American Universities" the other day in an appearance before the Washington National Press Club. Incidentally, Dr. Pusey evaded up a couple of old scores with Wisconsin Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, who has been one of his most severe critics.

Dr. Pusey had been president of Lawrence College at Appleton, Wis., the senator's home town, before going to Harvard last year. And while the senator has given his former townsman only the typical McCarthy treatment, Dr. Pusey managed to reply to some pretty sharp questions in perfect good humor and without getting mad or even angry, as they say in Boston.

Press Club President Tony Vaccaro, who himself is becoming rather celebrated for his brand of dry, deadpan Tennessee wit, set the tone for the proceedings in presenting Dr. Pusey.

"I wanted to introduce Dr. Pusey as 'The Man From Appleton,'" said Tony, "but that would not sufficiently identify him. There are 34,000 other people in Appleton. I should have said there were 34,000-odd people in Appleton, most of whom are not odd at all."

"Dr. Pusey has never written a book," he added, "but he must have read a lot of 'em.'"

Taking the bull by the horns, Dr. Pusey came immediately to grips with the question of why Harvard had been reluctant to fire a certain professor several months ago.

This was a reference to Prof. Wendell H. Furry. In February, 1953, Professor Furry had refused to answer House un-American Activities Committee questions on past Communist associations. Just a year ago, Professor Furry was put on three years' probation for having told a government agent that a job applicant was not a Communist, when he knew the man was. All this was before Dr. Pusey became head of Harvard last September.

He was asked pointedly why Harvard should believe a teacher when he refuses to say under oath whether he is a Communist? He replied that since that time, Doctor Furry has said under oath he was not a Communist. Harvard would not keep any man on its faculty who was under Communist discipline, but it would not dismiss a man on unproved charges. Invoking the Fifth Amendment was not an admission of guilt.

There is no one on the faculty today who is a Communist, Dr. Pusey declared. There were three who had been and two of them were still on the faculty. Also, in the 1930's there had been a group of 14 or 15 young instructors at Harvard who had been in a Communist club. Only one of them was on the faculty now, and he was not a Communist.

This, then, was the situation which led Senator McCarthy to declare last November that Harvard was a "smelly mess," where the students were being indoctrinated by Communist professors. Harvard, Dr. Pusey pointed out, has 10,000 students and 3,000 teachers.

He was asked if he thought the theory of communism should be taught in the U. S. schools. "Of course," he replied. "The more we learn about it, the better we can fight it." At another point he declared that "Universities will always be in the forefront in the fight on communism. But in this process, care must be taken not to destroy our own way of life." He said we must not be misled "by those who would exploit a few examples for their own private gain."

Pin-pointing this reference, another question was: "Do you believe Senator McCarthy took advantage of the Fifth Amendment by refusing to reveal the name of the officer who gave him the army document on the FBI report?"

"It all depends on how you use language," said Dr. Pusey, "and sometimes people use it pretty carelessly."

"Would Harvard award Senator McCarthy the degree of DD—for Doctor of Documents?"

President Pusey let that one pass without comment.

He was asked if he thought there were any Communist students or any McCarthy followers on the campus now. And if the answer was, "No," did that mean he was falling down on his job?

Dr. Pusey said he thought college students today were pretty much above politics. He didn't believe there were any Communists at Harvard now. There had been a club supporting McCarthy. They gave it the same academic freedom they would any other club.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

BANKRUPTCY IN THE AFTERNOON

About a hundred midnights ago, at Reuben's Restaurant, I ran into Bill Liebow, a friend of mine who owns several resort hotels, including the Posh and palatial Internacional at Varadero Beach, Cuba.

Over coffee and cheesecake, Bill let drop he was thinking of building a bullfight arena at Varadero to help publicize his hotel, and asked me what I thought of the idea. I told him that, except for once having bummed a cigarette from Sidney Franklin, I knew little about the boy-meets-bull business, but that, first chance I got, I would bone up on the subject and let him know what I thought the odds were of his making a go of it.

Well, what with this, that and a lot of interruptions, I didn't get around to making good on my promise until a few days ago, but now that I have the facts and figures at hand, I'd like to pass them on to him and anyone else interested in the commercial aspects of the stylized butchery known as "torero."

To begin with, you've got to build an arena, and for grade-A fights in Latin America, a stadium must seat close to 20,000. It must be equipped with a hospital, a chapel, stables, dressing rooms and covered pens for at least a dozen bulls. (It seems the pedigreed critters must be kept in the dark for three days before they enter the ring.)

A "programa" consists of three matadors carving up six bulls, and matadors, who play footsie with death every time they step in the ring, don't come cheap. They get anywhere from $6,000 to $21,000 per performance and, to hear aficionados tell it, there are only about 30 of them in the world who rate an afternoon's attention.

In addition to matadors, the impresario must hire nine banderilleros, two puntilleros, nine picadors, a dozen ring servants, two mule teams driven by "white monkeys" (whatever they are), two men to shovel sand on the blood, and a brass band to pep up the opening spectacle. In other words, a cast of at least 100, all good union members and all getting about $50 per day.

Then, of course, there are the bulls—highly bred aristocrats which cost the best part of $1,000 apiece. But you're not through yet. There's the expense of rain, fire and liability insurance, advertising, hospital staff and stadium personnel. To the foregoing, add taxes, hefty bribes to politicians, the cost of horses which are frequently gored into dog food and, last but not not least, the amortization of a stadium which, unlike an American ball park, is seldom used more than a dozen times a year.

Thus, even without the aid of a slide rule, it quickly becomes apparent that the "nut" for a passable afternoon's "torero" will be at least $30,000, and a stout program may run as high as $80,000.

When I saw the great Manole fight in Mexico City 10 years ago, his take-home pay for fighting two bulls was $36,000 and, to make ends meet, the promoters had to charge $100 per each for the downfront pews.

There's another risk involved, albeit a long one. If the spectators don't happen to approve of a matador, they may burn down the stadium or rip it up plank by plank. This, according to the man I buy my hot chili from, has happened on several occasions. And when such a display of high spirits makes kindling of a stadium, the promoter can't figure on recouping much of his investment by selling the dead bulls for beef. It seems that toros bred for power and belligerence are mighty stringy when they reach the dinner table.

To sum up, Bulls is the Craziest People, and the presentation of big-time bullfighting is far and away the costliest form of live entertainment. . . . If Bill Liebow, despite this friendly warning, goes ahead with his plan to build a bull arena on the sparsely populated peninsula known as Varadero, it's my hunch that Ernest Hemingway, 90 miles down the coast in Havana, will have no choice but to retitile his famous opus, "Bankruptcy in the Afternoon."

GRADUATION

It would be pleasant if we could say to the young people who will be graduated shortly from our schools and colleges "do this," or "do that" and you will surely succeed, "go this way" and you can avoid danger and mistakes. Unfortunately ours is not the kind of world, and these are not the kind of times, when such positive advice can be given, except in the most general of terms.

By its nature youth is impatient with advice, so eager to get on with the job of living that it resents being detained for the length of time it must spend to listen. This impatience is understandable. Yet if the young people do listen they may be able to spare themselves some of the setbacks and disappointments that those who have gone before have encountered. The young must realize that there is a great difference between long-winded attempts to impress them and sincere advice; between clichés and eternal verities which are no less true because they are frequently recounted.

Honesty, diligence, courage, a thirst for knowledge, are still the ingredients of real success. Faith is still a bulwark against fear, hope is still an antidote for disappointment.

Too often commencement addresses and editorials assume that graduates are just beginning life, that the years spent in school were part of an unreal world which vanishes when the graduate receives his diploma. This is not the case; graduation is merely one more milestone along the way. Nor does the task of learning end there, except for the man who is a fool.

The world has a great need for the enthusiasm and the boundless energy of the young. As they turn to the task they have elected for themselves let them know that they can look to their elders for advice and assistance whenever they need it; let them also know that their elders look to them with hope.

SCHOOLS OF THE SOUTH

The South spends a greater portion of its income on schools than any other section, according to the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education. From 1940 to 1952 expenditures per pupil in the South increased more than three times. Every state showed a substantial gain.

School equipment, notably in books, is still below what it should be. This is true in schools for white children, and more so in those for Negroes. Abolition of segregation, required by the recent Supreme Court decision, would not of itself remove the deficiencies. It would simply mean, under present conditions, that some Negro children would go to better schools, and some whites to worse.

As might be expected from the funds they have available, the Southern cities have done better than the rural areas. In some rural counties the best white schools are inferior to the cities' worst schools for Negroes.

All this means a long pull. Fortunately the South recognizes its needs and is doing its best to meet them.

VACATION PLANS

Vacation time is about to descend upon the United States once more. In the next three months millions of Americans will travel millions of miles, and will spend many millions of dollars, in quest of fun, relaxation and rest. Along with these they will get a dash of sunburn, seasickness and not a few automobile accidents.

While no one would deny or belittle the pleasure of the vacation itself, most people will admit that at least half the fun lies in planning it. Thumbing through road maps, hotel brochures, tourist books or cruise advertisements gives added pleasure to many a long, hot June afternoon or evening.

During this planning stage, the confines of the bankroll can be forgotten. It becomes possible to picture the spectacular beauty of the San Bernardino valley in California, to climb the Rockies of Colorado, or to take a boat trip along the banks of the Wisconsin River. A Great Lakes cruise, a ride along the Blue Ridge Mountains of the Carolinas or a fishing trip to Maine all spread themselves invitingly before the vacationer who

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

OBITUARY

What is really important, the great events of the day or the small events of our private lives? A child is born. A child graduates from school. A daughter marries. A son gets his first job. These are the joys of life, and among them there are pains, too.

And no pain perhaps hurts more than the death of a beloved dog. I have been watching my dog, Brownie, die of cancer. As in a human, the malady starts unnoticed. And then it is evident that something is wrong. And then there is the confusion of diagnosis and the deceit that does not deceive. And then there is hope beyond hope, optimism that does not help, belief that a remedy will be found that is not found. My Brownie did not know how ill she was until mercifully her heart gave out. For there is this about a dog: when a dog is ill, she is sorry for her master. She regrets that she cannot wag her tail so enthusiastically when he enters the house. She is mortified that she causes him sorrow when she cannot hold her food or when the choking enlargement of her glands keeps her master awake. Dogs have a way of conveying ideas without the spoken word. It is like lovers who gaze at each other across a myriad crowd and understand the glance that leaves an eternal memory.

I knew Brownie's mother well. She had come out of Ireland, a mixture of beagle and Irish setter, who worked the sheep. The mother knew little English, her speech being Gaelic and so the American troops stationed there called her "Dammie," which somehow she understood. She went through the war in Belgium, France and Germany and learned when not to bark and what to do mid shot and shell. Dammie by some means came into our land in a duffle bag. Her first litter in this country was a product of unselected love and Brownie was one of it.

And Brownie came to us almost immediately after birth to be the companion of small children. But she turned to me for friendship and assurance and during the early years, sat with me as I worked, understanding that real affection does not interrupt or destroy. And during those years I would talk to her of the forces and events of these days of men great and small. And as we roamed the city park or country field and woods, ideas came to me in this unselected conversation and somehow one was a bit ashamed of the mean and small and vindictive, for no such qualities could be in a dog who only lives to love.

And then we got a typewriter, which is a noisy thing, and Brownie deserted me for my wife, a calm soul to domesticity inclined. Thus, Brownie lived quietly, knowing and attending to everybody's business. When the dinner bell rang, she rounded up the family and counted them to make sure that there were no stragglers. She always entered the dining room last with an air of authority. I have been told by those who can only pretend to knowledge that animals do not think that they live by instinct. It is not true. Dogs do think and if they do understand many human emotions and if they love quarrel or are in trouble, a dog will know and will express sympathy. It was always difficult not only to punish but to castigate our children, because Brownie stood between parent and child, protecting the child and scolding the parent. When one raised his voice, Brownie went to the member of the family criticized and licked a hand or even a shoe.

She knew most of my friends and loved most dearly Ward Bond, the actor, whom she only saw rarely on his occasional visits East. One night, I returned home very early in the morning. As I came home and got at unusual times, Brownie never barked at my arrival, but on this one occasion as I opened the door, there was one sharp, premonitory yelp. I rushed to my wife's bedroom. She was ill and she was worried. And Brownie was worried and called me to come quickly. She knew it was important.

And Brownie is no more and it will be hard to open the front door and not see her smiling face—smile of complete joy. (Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

REDUCING PAIN AND DISTRESS IN ULCER

When a drug of the proprietary type obtains brilliant results within a few minutes in giving relief from the pain of peptic ulcer, it is certainly considered successful. I refer to the drug Bantnine which I have mentioned before.

In Medical Clinics of North America we learn that Bantnine is the trade name of G. S. Searle and Company, a product of bromine of the ammonium compounds. It has been known for only three years, but its beneficial effects have become dramatic and it appeared as early as 1952 in the medical literature, where it was stated that Bantnine was useful as an aid in the treatment of peptic ulcer, gastritis, pancreatitis, mucous colitis, irritable bowel, irritation of the bladder, and the control of excessive perspiration which aggravates certain skin conditions.

Bantnine is supplied in 50 mg. tablets and the average dose by mouth is one or two tablets usually at meal time and at night.

It is generally agreed that for all stomach and intestinal diseases mentioned above, Bantnine should be used as an adjunct (an aid) and should not replace the usual treatment. When it is added to the usual dietary and sedative treatment of peptic ulcer, pain is usually more promptly relieved than with atropine.

Bantnine should not be used when certain diseases or conditions are present such as glaucoma (swelling of eyeballs), obstruction of flow of urine, obstruction at top of stomach, of flow of bile and after operations, and in heart failure.

Although Bantnine has no curative effect in ulcerative colitis, it does help in decreasing the number of bowel movements and abdominal distress. X-ray and other studies have also shown that Bantnine decreases the severity and frequency of intestinal contractions or spasms.

Finally, reducing excessive perspiration is a real find for this special treatment has long been undiscovered. Not only is excessive sweating embarrassing and uncomfortable but it also aggravates certain skin conditions.

Studies so far have shown that recurrence of symptoms has occurred in roughly 30 per cent of cases on the usual ulcer protective program plus Bantnine. To date there has not been reported any long-term follow-up study on these patients in whom recurrence of ulcer symptoms did not develop while on Bantnine therapy but this may be reported in the future.

begins planning in June. His mind may wander to the pink beaches of Bermuda, the snow-capped Alpine peaks of Switzerland, the historic castles of England or the fiestas of Spain. And all these plans are free.

Actually or thousands, whether spent in the backyard or vacations of miles from home, are important. They can pay dividends in happiness, new experiences, new sights and new acquaintances. They should be planned carefully for the maximum enjoyment, and planning can be the best fun of all.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington (NEA)—Harvard's young President Nathan M. Pusey, who came from Iowa originally, delivered a load of good midwestern horse sense on the subject of "Loyalty and Freedom in American Universities" the other day in an appearance before the Washington National Press Club. Incidentally, Dr. Pusey evoked up a couple of old scores with Wisconsin Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, who has been one of his most severe critics.

Dr. Pusey had been president of Lawrence College at Appleton, Wis., the senator's home town, before going to Harvard last year. And while the senator has given his former townsman only the typical McCarthy treatment, Dr. Pusey managed to reply to some pretty sharp questions in getting good humor and without getting mad or even angry, as they say in Boston.

Press Club President Tony Vaccaro, who himself is becoming rather celebrated for his brand of dry, deadpan Tennessee wit, set the tone for the proceedings in presenting Dr. Pusey.

"I wanted to introduce Dr. Pusey as 'The Man From Appleton,'" said Tony, "but that would not sufficiently identify him. There are 34,000 other people in Appleton. I should have said there were 34,000-odd people in Appleton, most of whom are not odd at all."

"Dr. Pusey has never written a book," he added, "but he must have read a lot of 'em.'"

Taking the bull by the horns, Dr. Pusey came immediately to grips with the question of why Harvard had been reluctant to fire a certain professor several months ago.

This was a reference to Prof. Wendell H. Furry. In February, 1953, Professor Furry had refused to answer House un-American Activities Committee questions on past Communist associations. Just a year ago, Professor Furry was put on three years' probation for having told a government agent that a job applicant was not a Communist, when he knew the man was. All this was before Dr. Pusey became head of Harvard last September.

He was asked pointedly why Harvard should believe a teacher when he refuses to say under oath whether he is a Communist? He replied that since that time, Doctor Furry has said under oath he was not a Communist. Harvard would not keep any man on its faculty who was under Communist discipline, but it would not dismiss a man on unproved charges. Invoking the Fifth Amendment was not an admission of guilt.

There is no one on the faculty today who is a Communist, Dr. Pusey declared. There were three who had been and two of them were still on the faculty. Also, in the 1930's there had been a group of 14 or 15 young instructors at Harvard who had been in a Communist club. Only one of them was on the faculty now, and he was not a Communist.

This, then, was the situation which led Senator McCarthy to declare last November that Harvard was a "smelly mess," where the students were being indoctrinated by Communist professors. Harvard, Dr. Pusey pointed out, has 10,000 students and 3,000 teachers.

He was asked if he thought the theory of communism should be taught in the U. S. schools. "Of course," he replied. "The more we learn about it, the better we can fight it." At another point he declared that "Universities will always be in the forefront in the fight on communism. But in this process, care must be taken not to destroy our own way of life." He said we must not be misled "by those who would exploit a few examples for their own private gain."

Pin-pointing this reference, another question was: "Do you believe Senator McCarthy took advantage of the Fifth Amendment by refusing to reveal the name of the officer who gave him the arms document on the FBI report?"

"It all depends on how you use language," said Dr. Pusey, "and sometimes people use it pretty carelessly."

"Would Harvard award Senator McCarthy the degree of DD—for Doctor of Documents?"

President Pusey let that one pass without comment.

He was asked if he thought there were any Communist students or any McCarthy followers on the campus now. And if the answer was, "No," did that mean he was falling down on his job?

Dr. Pusey said he thought college students today were pretty much above politics. He didn't believe there were any Communists at Harvard now. There had been a club supporting McCarthy. They gave it the same academic freedom they would any other club.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

BANKRUPTCY IN THE AFTERNOON

About a hundred midnights ago, at Reuben's Restaurant, I ran into Bill Liebow, a friend of mine who owns several resort hotels, including the Posh and palatial Internacional at Varadero Beach, Cuba.

Over coffee and cheesecake, Bill let drop he was thinking of building a bullfight arena at Varadero to help publicize his hotel, and asked me what I thought of the idea. I told him that, except for once having bummed a cigarette from Sidney Franklin, I knew little about the boy-meets-bull business, but that, first chance I got, I would bone up on the subject and let him know what I thought the odds were of his making a go of it.

Well, what with this, that and a lot of interruptions, I didn't get around to making good on my promise until a few days ago, but now that I have the facts and figures at hand, I'd like to pass them on to him and anyone else interested in the commercial aspects of the stylized butchery known as "torero."

To begin with, you've got to build an arena, and for grade-A fights in Latin America, a stadium must seat close to 20,000. It must be equipped with a hospital, a chapel, stables, dressing rooms and covered pens for the prize-fighting bulls. (It seems the prize-fighting critters must be kept in the dark for three days before they enter the ring.)

A "programa" consists of three matadors carving up six bulls, and matadors, who play footsie with death every time they step in the ring, don't come cheap. They get anywhere from $6,000 to $21,000 per performance and, to hear aficionados tell it, there are only about 30 of them in the world who rate an afternoon's attention.

In addition to matadors, the impresario must hire nine banderilleros, two puntilleros, nine picadores, a dozen ring servants, two mule teams driven by "white monkeys" (whatever they are), two men to shovel sand on the blood, and a brass band to pep up the opening spectacle. In other words, a cast of at least 100, all good union members and all getting about $50 per day.

Then, of course, there are the bulls—highly bred aristocrats which cost the best part of $1,000 apiece. But you're not through yet. There's the expense of rain, fire and liability insurance, advertising, hospital staff and stadium personnel. To the foregoing, add taxes, hefty bribes to politicians, the cost of horses which are frequently gored into dog food and, last but not least, the amortization of a stadium which, unlike an American ball park, is seldom used more than a dozen times a year.

Thus, even without the aid of a slide rule, it quickly becomes apparent that the "nut" for a passable afternoon's "torero" will be at least $30,000, and a stand-out program may run as high as $80,000.

When I saw the great Manole fight in Mexico City 10 years ago, his take-home pay for fighting two bulls was $36,000 and, to make ends meet, the promoters had to charge $100 per each for the downtown pens.

There's another risk involved, albeit a long one. If the spectators don't happen to approve of a matador, they may burn down the stadium or rip it up plank by plank. This, according to the man I buy my hot chili from, has happened on several occasions. And when such a display of high spirits makes kindling of a stadium, the promoter can't figure on recouping much of his investment by selling the dead bulls for beef. It seems that toros bred for power and belligerence are mighty stringy when they reach the dinner table.

To sum up Bulls is the Craziest People, and the presentation of big-time bullfighting is far and away the costliest form of live entertainment.

If Bill Liebow, despite this friendly warning, goes ahead with his plan to build a bull arena on the sparsely populated peninsula known as Varadero, it's my hunch that Ernest Hemingway, 90 miles down the coast in Havana, will have no choice but to retitile his famous opus, "Bankruptcy in the Afternoon."

Miss Janet Shultis,
Edward L. Snyder
Nuptials Are Held

Miss Janet Carol Shultis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Shultis of Bearsville, became the bride of Edward Lewis Snyder of Highlands, son of Mrs. Irving Gaudner, Saturday, May 29, at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Lawrence Shultis. The Rev. Kenneth E. Dearstine of the Woodstock Methodist Church performed the double ring ceremony.

Donald Leschnick was organist for the ceremony. The Shultis home was decorated with pink dogwood and spirea for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace with fitted bodice, with matching jacket having long pointed sleeves and a standup collar. Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Four hundred photo-engravers in New York City prevented 8 million people from reading the news of the world for 11 days. That put the interests of one striker ahead of the interests of 20,000 persons.

I take no sides between labor and management in this dispute. I am on the side of the people.

The strike was within the law. Yet it would have been illegal for the Mayor, Governor, President of the United States, Congress or the Armed Forces to shut down those newspapers, or even one of them. The strikers, then, were more powerful than the Government of the country in which they live.

What a picture of futile helplessness the strike must have presented to the representatives of 80 nations, watching from the U.N. building in New York City.

This same sword of Damocles hangs over every community in America as it involves its newspapers, milk, food, coal, gas, oil, electricity, transportation and hospitals.

"Freedom of the press" is not primarily for owners of newspapers nor their employees. It is the right of the people to have access to the news. This is implied in written and unwritten law. It is part of the rights of a citizen in a Democracy. As a great editor once said: "Our Republic and its press will rise or fall together."

It is my contention that the newspaper is a public service in the same way as these other "services" I have cited above. All of them are vital to our health and welfare. They cannot be denied us—not if we call ourselves a Democracy.

Health for All

Visiting a Sick Friend

"Poor Jane. We must go to the hospital and cheer her up." It's a kind and sympathetic thought, but before you put it into action, stop and consider how you can make your visit to the sickroom truly a welcome one.

Times have changed in the hospital world. In the old days, patients stayed longer and, as they convalesced, were often well enough to enjoy and even benefit by having visitors. But now the average stay in a hospital is only eight days. If Jane is in the hospital at all, she's probably sick, certainly weak and easily tired. Many doctors state bluntly that visitors disturb the patient's rest, interrupt a carefully planned routine, interfere with medication and feeding, and tire him to the point of hindering his recovery.

Don't take it for granted that your friend is allowed visitors. Telephone first to make sure and to ask about visiting hours and how long you should stay. Properly timed, your visit can be helpful. But a thoughtless visitor can do harm.

A common fault of people trying to be cheery is talking too loud. Hold your voice down and sit where the patient can see and hear you without moving her head. Give her news of friends and neighborhood events. Talk about what a good cook or canasta player she is, rather than about yourself. If she insists on talking politics, join in but don't argue. If she wants to give you all the details of her operation, listen patiently, but don't be the one to start it.

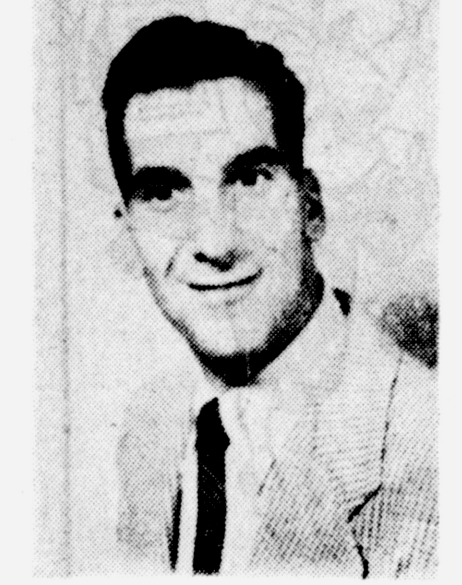

As for gifts, give a little thought to selecting something you know will suit the patient, rather than automatically buying a big bunch of flowers. Appropriate cartoons and articles cut from newspapers and magazines, puzzles, playing cards, and games can be "good medicine." The loan of a radio or TV set might be appreciated, if hospital rules permit. Bring small flowers in containers if possible or small potted plants—something your friend can have near her bed.

One final piece of advice, make sure that yours was a helpful visit and that you'll be welcome again; leave promptly when your time is up.

Miss McCulloch hails from West Virginia where she became famous to radio listeners under the name of Sidesaddle Sue. In New York, she was understood to lead in Brigadoon, leaving after two years to involve herself in the production end in theatrical enterprises from Maine to Florida.

She realized her dream of owning her own theatre when the Vanderbilt property came up for sale, seeing it as the ideal setting for a summer theatre.

George Quick, who is general manager, was a member of the Barter Theatre group which took its production of Hamlet to play at Elsinore, Denmark, under the auspices of the State Department. He was production stage manager of Porgy and Bess, and of Coriolanus, which starred Robert Ryan.

The producers have secured Ray Boyle, also connected with the Coriolanus company and a protégé of Helen Hayes, as director of the summer stock enterprise.

Performances will be given every night but Monday with matinees on Saturdays. Come Back Little Sheba will begin on June 22, and Pygmalion on June 29. Subscriber tickets are available for the season.

Theatre Strike Averted

New York, June 5 (AP)—The AFL Actors Equity Association has reached a wage agreement with New York theatres yesterday, averting the first strike threat against the Broadway stage since 1919. Under the new three-year pact, 6,500 actors received no pay boost on their $85 weekly minimum for Broadway shows. However, 2,500 chorus line affiliates gained a $5 raise to $90 a week. Road minimums for both groups were increased $10 to a new figure of $120 weekly. The expense allowance also was hiked $5 to $55 a week. The new contract also includes a hospital and health insurance plan.

52 Injured in Blasts

Charleston, W. Va., June 5 (AP)—Tons of water pumped from the Kanawha river held at bay today a dangerous chemical plant fire after a series of five "atomic-like" explosions shook the countryside and injured at least 52 persons. Company officials said as far as they could tell all personnel were accounted for. About 200 men were working in the institute plant of the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp. about 11 miles west of here, when a tank car exploded and set off a chain of four other blasts. A spokesman said there was a "possibility" some might have been caught in the blast area.

Nations Form Alliance

Athens, Greece, June 5 (AP)—Greece and Yugoslavia announced today the formation of a Balkan military alliance including Turkey. The three nations have hitherto been linked in a friendship pact. A joint Greek-Yugoslav communiqué issued here said the alliance would be formally established next month at a meeting of the foreign ministers of the three countries in Belgrade. The announcement climaxed months of negotiations between the three governments. Yugoslavia's President Tito is in Athens on a state visit in connection with the talks.

Reports on Gulf Survey

New York, June 5 (AP)—Prof. W. Maurice Ewing has returned from a five-month survey of the Gulf of Mexico saying there is evidence the gulf floor is made of silt washed there by the Mississippi river, perhaps 40,000 years ago. Ewing said scientists had previously figured the gulf was a formation ranking somewhere between a continent and an ocean. However, he said, he has found under the bottom silt a layer of basalt and rock like that found in true ocean beds.

Berlin, June 5 (AP)—More than 800 "responsible officials" of the German government are under 25 years of age, Erich Honecker, chairman of the Communist Free German Youth said today in the Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland.

Late Bulletin

New York, June 5 (AP)—Clarance Henry, 27-year-old former heavyweight contender, was ordered held in $50,000 bail today after arraignment on charges of trying to "fix" next Friday night's fight at Madison Square Garden. Hearing was set for June 14.

Justice Reserves Decision on Land Injunction Action

Justice Harry E. Schirck reserved decision on a motion made at special term of Supreme Court Friday by which Garfield and Margaret Lansing sought a temporary injunction to prevent John V. and Sallie C. Draney from closing off a driveway to their premises off Route 28-A.

Petitioners have brought an action for establishment of an easement over the Draney property to reach their summer cottage. Stewart T. Schantz appeared for Lansing and Francis Tucker of Cook & Cook, for Draney.

Said Access Barred
It is the contention of the plaintiffs that logs and a chain bar their access over the Draney property and they contend the right of use has been established for some 30 years since John D. Groves sold the lot to one Peter. Plaintiffs bought the property last July. It is the contention of the defendants that there never was a right of way over the portion of the land now sought by the petitioners to be opened up to them and that the defendant has installed a pavement for his own use and the petitioners now seek to use that route. The defendant expressed a desire to cross-examine Groves as to what transpired when he sold the lot and as to use over the Draney property since.

Stevenson . . .

anyhow?" he asked. "The usual diagnosis is ignorance and fear. . . . But I wonder if all these alarming concerns are not America's surface symptoms of something deeper; of a moral and human crisis in the western world which might even be compared to the 5th and 6th century crisis when the Roman Empire was transformed into feudalism and early Christianity, or the crisis of a thousand years later when the feudal world exploded and the individual emerged with a new relationship to God, nature and society. . . .

"Since man cannot live by bread alone, is not the underlying crisis whether he is going to be inspired and motivated again by the ideas of the humanistic tradition of the west, or whether he falls for the new pagan religions, the worship of the state and a leader, as millions of believers in the Fascist or Soviet systems have already done?"

Not Invulnerable

"That we are not invulnerable, that there is a moral and human vacuum within us, I think, demonstrated by many symptoms, of which McCarthyism—which has succeeded in frightening so many—is only one."

Recalling American accomplishments at home and abroad, Stevenson said "the plain truth is that we . . . have written the greatest success story in human history. . . . We here in America have in a few years made socialism obsolete, and shown communism to be a poisonous, stagnant pool of reaction, a breeding ground for all the diseases of violence, slavery and spiritual suffocation that man has spent millennia trying to escape. . . .

"Why then all this abuse and criticism? Why then have we of late grown afraid of ourselves? Why have we of late acted as though the world of freedom is a security risk? Why have we given in to the beatings of those who insist that it is dangerous for a man to have an idea in his head?"

"The horror of our time in history," he said, "is that things are worse than ever before. There is no peace, we are besieged and we are rattled."

Stevenson's nationally televised speech was divided into two parts, which he entitled "Hooray for America" and "Look Out, America!" It was the final event of a Columbia bicentennial conference built on the theme "National Policies for Education, Health, and Social Welfare."

President Eisenhower, a former president of Columbia, addressed a bicentennial dinner held by the university last Monday.

Farm Militia Is

however, said arms were being stored in rural warehouses to equip the projected militia in case of emergency.

Got Millions in Arms

Guatemala's Leftist government recently received a 10-million-dollar arms shipment from Stettin in Communist Poland. The United States airlifted arms to neighboring Honduras soon after the Stettin shipment was received here. Relations between Guatemala and Honduras have been strained for several years. The farm federation also announced a number of Guatemalan agricultural organizations are sending financial aid to Honduran workers now on strike against the United Fruit Co. properties in that country. The announcement did not indicate how much money had been sent.

Monitored Calls

for Schine, a former consultant to the Investigations subcommittee headed by McCarthy.

The calls also disclosed that Symington joined forces with the army side at one point in the dispute before it got to the hearings stage.

Symington was quoted as advising Stevens to seek advice from Clark Clifford, a former top aide to President Truman, and as telling Stevens that Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers was "one other fellow that is on your side."

Gives Explanation

The Missouri senator gave this explanation as the content of his transcribed discussions with Stevens came to light: With the heavy in an effort to help McCarthy's reported abuse of army witnesses; that he had not talked to any principals in the case outside the hearing room once the subcommittee took on its investigations; and that he did not know if Stevens ever went to Clifford.

Rogers, already named in McCarthy's contentions that administration officials outside the army had a hand in the case, said in a speech at Willimantic, Conn., last night that "there are many more important things" to attract the attention of the American people than "these congressional hearings." He refused comment as to which of the two battling groups he sympathized with.

With the hearings in recess until Monday, several more of the phone calls between Stevens and subcommittee members and the McCarthy camp principals remained to go into the public records. The calls were originally taken down in shorthand by Stevens' secretarial staff.

Boxer Says . . .

that much money. "I'll go get a friend of mine and he will convince you my people are reliable," said Henry and he left.

Trailed by detectives, he met a man about a half block away from the hotel and engaged in "animated" conversation. To the chagrin of the sleuths, Henry was standing right in front of a newsstand prominently displaying the Journal-American story. It was there that Henry was nabbed, along with a man who gave his name as Joseph Hacken, 34, of New York. Hacken was held in $25,000 bail as a material witness.

The gambling aspect of the fix attempt had even the professional's wondering. For one thing, even to win $15,000 on Jones, the fixers would have to lay $30,000. It's next to impossible to bet that sum in the metropolitan area these days. If they tried to bet it in smaller amounts, they would have to employ a fantastic number of agents.

Further, as soon as considerable money began to show on Giardello, the bookies, a suspicious lot especially where fights are concerned, would revise their odds upward, and it would take much more than the $30,000 to even get their bribe money back.

Giardello actually was quoted as 9-11, which means that a bettor could get 9-5 if he liked the underdog but would have to lay 11-5 if he liked the favorite.

Bombs Hit . . .

battalions of French soldiers from North Africa to Indochina with American Globemasters have been abandoned because of diplomatic difficulties.

Red Tape Hurts

The red tape involved in getting clearances through half a dozen countries each time the airlift is undertaken contributed to this decision, the informant said. The United States, at a cost of about two million dollars, twice has airlifted French troops from France to Indochina. By-pass India and Burma which withheld permission to fly over their territories.

In view of these factors it was decided that transport by ship would be nearly as fast and more economical.

told Strauss, "I shall resist any effort to eliminate it, if only because to do so would be taken in some quarters as a reflection on you."

Holifield said he would fight the provision, on the House floor if necessary, but added "I do not consider this as a reflection" on the chairman.

Van Fleet Gives Views

Winter Haven, Fla., June 5 (AP)—The United States may not have to send ground forces to meet Communist threats in southeast Asia, in the opinion of Gen. James A. Van Fleet. "Japan represents the know-how in manufacturing weapons in that part of the world," the former Eighth Army commander in Korea said in an address here yesterday. "With the native population in those countries and Japan's manufacturing potential, we hope we can develop the strength to take care of the Communist threat."

Controls' Report False

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) says there is nothing to reports that officials are urging President Eisenhower to stockpile consumer ration books. An ODM spokesman said yesterday the agency is consulting the government printing office for current estimates of the cost and printing time that would be involved in turning out ration books and coupons, if needed. However, he stressed that this is a periodic procedure and that the government is definitely not preparing to reimpose economic controls.

Market Continues

four months of this year at 128 million dollars as compared with 262 million dollars in the comparable period a year ago. At the same time, new wage increase demands were extended by a key rail union representing 100,000 members.

From the opening of the stock market that day the rails did poorly. After these reports were published, the rails rallied.

Why? Brokers didn't offer any glib explanations. It was felt that if buyers wanted to pay higher prices for the rails, it was foolish to stop them.

There was a lot of selective strength in individual issues and groups all week. Favorable news was capitalized on immediately, and in many instances the bad news was ignored or glossed over quickly.

However, an air of caution persisted. Volume this week dropped to a daily average of 1,830,000 shares as compared with last week's daily average of 2,145,000 shares. This week's daily average was the lowest in nearly three months.

Does that mean that traders and others are holding to the sidelines as a precautionary measure to see whether a reaction develops? Or is it simply apathy pegged to the short week over Memorial Day and the beginning of the vacation season?

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Packard up ½ at 4½ on 177,600 shares; Boeing up 2½ at 43½; Canadian Pacific up 2½ at 27½; Lockheed unchanged at 34½, and National Container up ½ at 12½.

The five most active issues this week on the American Stock Exchange were:

Goldfield Consolidated Mines up ¼ at 1¼ on 84,000 shares; Sapphire Petroleum up 1/16 at 2 1/16; North Canadian Oils up 3/16 at 3½; American Maracaibo off ¼ at 6½, and Pacific Petroleum up 1½ at 11¼.

U. S. Is . . .

Today's meeting lasted between 25 and 30 minutes.

Unofficial List

Following is an unofficial breakdown of Americans in Communist China:

Civilians detained: In prison 32, presumed under arrest 3, unable to obtain exit permits 19. Total 54.

Civilians remaining voluntarily: (As far as United States Government knows) 39.

Military personnel: U. S. Air Force (from United Nations Command, Korea) 18. U. S. Navy and China coast: 11.

Total military: 29. Total number of Americans believed to be in China (mainland): 122 (of which total number detained, 83).

These figures are minimum estimates, the Americans said, and there may be a larger number detained on which there is no specific information.

Bronx Woman Dies When Hit by Car In Liberty Area

Mrs. Paula Levine, 57, of 1294 Grand avenue, Bronx, was killed in an accident on Route 17 three miles west of Liberty, Sullivan county, about 4:10 p. m. Friday, state police of the Fernalde station reported.

Mrs. Levine, a pedestrian, was struck as she was crossing the highway in front of the Grand Hotel, where she and her husband, Oscar Levine, were vacationing, troopers said.

52 Injured in Bombs

Charleston, W. Va., June 5 (AP)—Tons of water pumped from the Kanawha river held at bay today a dangerous chemical plant fire after a series of five "atomic-like" explosions shook the countryside and injured at least 52 persons. Company officials said as far as they could tell all personnel were accounted for. About 200 men were working in the institute plant of the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp. about 11 miles west of here, when a tank car exploded and set off a chain of four other blasts. A spokesman said there was a "possibility" some might have been caught in the blast area.

Nations Form Alliance

Athens, Greece, June 5 (AP)—Greece and Yugoslavia announced today the formation of a Balkan military alliance including Turkey. The three nations have hitherto been linked in a friendship pact. A joint Greek-Yugoslav communiqué issued here said the alliance would be formally established next month at a meeting of the foreign ministers of the three countries in Belgrade. The announcement climaxed months of negotiations between the three governments. Yugoslavia's President Tito is in Athens for a visit in connection with the talks.

Reports on Gulf Survey

New York, June 5 (AP)—Prof. W. Maurice Ewing has returned from a five-month survey of the Gulf of Mexico saying there is evidence the gulf floor is made of silt washed there by the Mississippi river, perhaps 40,000 years ago. Ewing said scientists had previously figured the gulf was an formation ranking somewhere between a continent and an ocean. However, he said, he has found under the bottom silt a layer of basalt and rock like that found in true ocean beds.

Cites Young Officials

Berlin, June 5 (AP)—More than 800 "responsible officials" of the East German government are under 25 years of age, Erich Honecker, chairman of the Communist Free German Youth said today in the Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland.

Late Bulletin

New York, June 5 (AP)—Clarance Henry, 27-year-old former heavyweight contender, was ordered held in $50,000 bail today after arraignment on charges of trying to "fix" next Friday night's fight at Madison Square Garden. Hearing was set for June 14.

Justice Reserves Decision on Land Injunction Action

Justice Harry E. Schirch reserved decision on a motion made at special term of Supreme Court Friday by which Garfield and Margaret Lansing sought a temporary injunction to prevent John V. and Sallie C. Draney from closing off a driveway to their premises off Route 28-A.

Petitioners have brought an action for establishment of an easement over the Draney property to reach their summer cottage. Stewart T. Schantz appeared for Lansing and Francis Tucker for Cook & Cook, for Draney.

Said Access Barred

It is the contention of the plaintiffs that logs and a chain bar their access over the Draney property and they contend the right of use has been established for some 30 years since John D. Groves sold the lot to one Peterson. Plaintiffs bought the property last July. It is the contention of the defendants that there never was a right of way over the portion of the land now sought by the petitioners to be opened up to them and that the defendant has installed a pavement for his own use and the petitioners now seek to use that route. The defendant expressed a desire to cross-examine Groves as to what transpired when he sold the lot and as to use over the Draney property since.

Stevenson . . .

anyhow?" he asked. "The usual diagnosis is ignorance and fear . . .

"But I wonder if all these alarming concerns are not America's surface symptoms of something deeper; of a moral and human crisis in the western world which might even be compared to the 5th and 6th century crisis when the Roman Empire was transformed into feudalism and early Christianity, or the crisis of a thousand years later when the feudal world exploded and the individual emerged with a new relationship to God, nature and society."

"Since man cannot live by bread alone, is not the underlying crisis whether he is going to be inspired and motivated again by the ideas of the humanistic tradition of the western culture, or whether he falls for the new pagan religions, the worship of the state and a leader, as millions of believers in the Fascist or Soviet systems have already done?"

Not Invulnerable

Recounting American accomplishments at home and abroad, Stevenson said "the plain truth is that we . . . have written the greatest success story in human history."

"We here in America have in a few years made socialism obsolete, and shown communism to be a noxious, stagnant pool of reaction, a breeding ground for all the diseases of violence, poverty and spiritual suffocation that man has spent millennia trying to escape."

"Why then all this abuse and criticism? Why then have we of late grown afraid of ourselves? Why have we of late acted as though the whole of this nation is a security risk? Why have we given in to the beatings of those who insist that it is dangerous for a man to have an idea in his head?"

"The horror of our time in history," he said, "is that things are worse than ever before. There are no peacekeepers, we are besieged and we are rattled."

Stevenson's nationally televised speech was divided into two parts, which he entitled "Hooray for America" and "Look Out, America!" It was the final event of a Columbia bicentennial conference built on the theme "National Policies for Education, Health, and Social Welfare."

President Eisenhower, a former president of Columbia, addressed a bicentennial dinner held by the university last Monday.

Farm Militia Is

however, said arms were being stored in rural warehouses to equip the projected militia in case of emergency.

Got Millions in Arms

Guatemala's Leftist government recently received a 10-million-dollar arms shipment from Stettin in Communist Poland.

The United States airlifted arms to neighboring Honduras soon after the Stettin shipment was received here. Relations between Guatemala and Honduras have been strained for several years.

The farm federation also announced a number of Guatemalan agricultural organizations are sending financial aid to Honduran workers now on strike against the United Fruit Co. properties in that country. The announcement did not indicate how much money had been sent.

25,000 Made Idle

The Honduran government has estimated that about 25,000 workers have been idled by the walk-out, called to enforce wage and benefit demands. Honduras officially has charged Communist agitators from Guatemala have infiltrated the strikers' ranks.

The regime of Guatemala's President Jacobo Arbenz has expropriated the greater part of United Fruit's land in this country.

In contrast to the company's difficulties in both Honduras and Guatemala, Costa Rican President Jose Figueres announced last night a new contract had been signed with United Fruit covering all company operations in that fellow Central American nation.

Monitored Calls

for Schine, a former consultant to the Investigations subcommittee headed by McCarthy.

The calls also disclosed that Symington joined forces with the army side at one point in the dispute before it got to the hearings stage.

Symington was quoted as advising Stevens to seek advice from Clark Clifford, a former top aide to President Truman, and as telling Stevens that Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers was "one other fellow that is on your side."

Gives Explanation

The Missouri senator gave this explanation as to the content of his transcribed discussions with Stevens came to light:

He had willingly taken "sides" with the army in an effort to help McCarthy's reported abuse of army witnesses; that he had not talked to any principals in the case outside the hearing room once the subcommittee took on its investigations; and that he did not know if Stevens ever went to Clifford.

Rogers, already named in McCarthy contentions that administration officials outside the army had a hand in the case, said in a speech at Williamsburg, Conn., last night that "there are many more important things" that attract the attention of the American people than "these congressional hearings." He refused comment as to which of the two battling groups he sympathized with.

With the hearings in recess until Monday, several more of the phone calls between Stevens and subcommittee members and the McCarthy camp principals remained to be made to the public record. The calls were originally taken down in shorthand by Stevens' secretarial staff.

Boxer Says . . .

that much money. "I'll go get a friend of mine and he will convince you my people are reliable," said Henry and he left.

Trailed by detectives, he met a man about a half block away from the hotel and engaged in "animated" conversation.

To the chagrin of the sleuths, Henry was standing right in front of a newsstand prominently displaying the Journal-American story. It was there that Henry was nabbed, along with a man who gave his name as Joseph Hacken, 34, of New York. Hacken was held in $25,000 bail as a material witness.

The gambling aspect of the fix attempt had even the professional's wondering.

For one thing, even to win $15,000 on Jones, the fixers would have to lay $30,000. It's next to impossible to bet that sum in the metropolitan area these days. If they tried to bet it in smaller amounts, they would have to employ a fantastic number of agents.

Further, as soon as considerable money began to show on Giardello, the bookies, a suspicious lot especially where fights are concerned, would revise their odds upward, and it would take much more than the $30,000 to even get their bets moving back.

Giardello actually was quoted as 9-11, which means that a bettor could get 9-5 if he liked the underdog but would have to lay 11-5 if he liked the favorite.

Bombs Hit . . .

battalions of French soldiers from North Africa to Indochina with American Globemasters have been abandoned because of diplomatic difficulties.

Red Tape Hurts

The red tape involved in getting clearances through half a dozen countries each time the airlift is undertaken contributed to this decision, the informant said.

The United States, at a cost of about two million dollars, twice has airlifted French troops from France to Indochina. Each time the big planes had to by-pass India and Burma which withheld permission to fly over their territories.

In view of these factors it was decided that transport by ship would be nearly as fast and more economical.

Holifield Says

told Strauss, "I shall resist any effort to eliminate it, if only because to do so would be taken in some quarters as a reflection on you."

Holifield said he would fight the provision, on the House floor if necessary, but added "I do not consider this as a reflection" on the chairman.

Van Fleet Gives Views

Winter Haven, Fla., June 5 (AP)—The United States may not have to send ground forces to meet Communist threats in southeast Asia, in the opinion of Gen. James A. Van Fleet. "Japan represents the know-how in manufacturing of weapons in that part of the world," the former Eighth Army commander in Korea said in an address here yesterday. "With the native population in those countries and Japan's manufacturing potential, we hope we can develop the strength to take care of the Communist threat."

Controls' Report False

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) says there is nothing to reports that officials are urging President Eisenhower to stockpile consumer ration books. An ODM spokesman said yesterday the agency is consulting the government printing office for current estimates of the cost and printing time that would be involved in turning out ration books and coupons, if needed. However, he stressed that this is a periodic procedure and that the government is definitely not preparing to reimpose economic controls.

Market Continues

four months of this year at 128 million dollars as compared with 262 million dollars in the comparable period a year ago.

At the same time, new wage increase demands were extended by a key rail union representing 100,000 members.

From the opening of the stock market that day the rails did poorly. After these reports were published, the rails rallied.

Why? Brokers didn't offer any glib explanations. It was felt that if buyers wanted to pay higher prices for railroads, it was foolish to stop them.

There was a lot of selective strength in individual issues and groups all week. Favorable news was capitalized on immediately, and in many instances the bad news was ignored or glossed over quickly.

However, an air of caution persisted. Volume this week dropped to a daily average of 1,830,000 shares as compared with last week's daily average of 2,145,000 shares. This week's daily average was the lowest in nearly three months.

Does that mean that traders and others are holding to the sidelines as a precautionary measure to see whether a reaction develops? Or is it simply apathy pegged to the short week over Memorial Day and the beginning of the vacation season?

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Packard up ½ at 4½ on 177,600 shares; Boeing up 2½ at 43½; Canadian Pacific up 2½ at 27½; Lockheed unchanged at 34½; and National Container up ¼ at 12½.

The five most active issues this week on the American Stock Exchange were:

Goldfield Consolidated Mines up ¼ at 1¼ on 84,000 shares; Sapphire Petroleum up 1/16 at 2 1/16; North Canadian Oils up 3/16 at 3¼; American Maracaibo off ¼ at 6; and Pacific Petroleum up 1¼ at 11¼.
